Market Prices Battered Down After a Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was sharply lower late this afternoon as prices were battered downward again after rebounding vigorously from an early decline. Trading was active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6 million shares compared with 5.85 million Wednesday.

Key stocks were off from fractions to more than a point, generally, with higher priced issues taking worse losses.

Du Pont was down more than 4. IBM sank to new yearly lows, shucking off about 14 points.

Xerox and Polaroid were down about 5 points.

Most sections of the list were hit hard by selling. Tobaccos were mixed, backing away from an early advance. Reynolds and Lorillard still showed plus signs in late dealings.

The list fell at the start, rebounded to show a gain at the end of the first hour, then softened. After a period of slack trading, the market fell again with tickers running late.

Gloom pervaded the market at the start because the Dow Jones industrial average had pierced the May 28 closing low in the previous session.

So-called bargain hunters came back into the market after the initial selloff, supplying steam for the recovery, but they were scarce when prices slid again.

Prices were mostly lower on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was active.

U.S. government bonds showed slight declines. Corporates continued mixed.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market saw-sawed in heavy trading today, flirting some of the time with 1962 lows.

After slipping a bit at the start, it quickly turned mixed and remained irregular into the early afternoon. The fast trading pace caused the ticker tape to fall behind up to nine minutes in reporting floor transactions.

Price changes up and down held mostly inside the $1 range.

Brokers appeared puzzled over the market's alternate up-and-down swings.

One, asked whether recent statements by government officials were affecting the market, replied: "No. And I wish they'd shut up."

Depending on which of several yardsticks was used, the market as a whole was barely above or just below its low point of the year on May 28 after the steepest one-day fall since 1929.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 a 212.40. Industrials were down .30, rails up .20 and utilities down .10.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.51 at 571.53. This was below the close on May 28 but above a lower level touched on May 29 before a sharp rebound late in the session. Standard & Poor's 500-stock average was down .22 at 55.28 at that hour.

Probers Told About Forced Prostitution

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two blonde entertainers told senators today efforts were made to force them into prostitution when they worked in Calumet City, Ill., night clubs. One said the same thing happened at a Miami, Fla., club.

Caroline Suzette Stein, a platinum blonde showgirl from Pittsburgh, said she got nowhere when she complained to her union, the AFL-CIO American Guild of Variety Artists against what she termed lurid and obscene working conditions in night clubs.

"For eight or nine years I argued for union protection," Mrs. Stein said. "But they always sloughed me off as a fanatical strip-teaser."

Mrs. Stein said she had never succumbed to night club coercion to mix with or prostitute herself for male customers.

"I walked out of the job in Miami," she said.

The testimony was before a Senate Investigations subcommittee exploring AGVA's role as a union which is supposed to protect its entertainer members.

In that connection, it is pursuing the question whether girl entertainers have been placed in fear of their lives and made victims of white slave practices in honky-tonk clubs run by a crime syndicate based in the Chicago area.

Preceding Mrs. Stein to the witness chair was Joan Gainley, who said she worked as a dancer and B-girl at the 21 Club in Calumet City.

"Did they try to force you into prostitution?" subcommittee Counsel Jerome Adlerman asked.

"Yes," she replied, her voice tense.

"Was this a practice of the club?"

"Yes."

She said she was never threatened.

Big Defense Measure Is Given Okay

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unanimous Senate approval of a massive $48.5-billion defense bill moved the record peacetime appropriation back to the House today.

There, leaders were expected to send the bulky measure to the usual compromise session of a Senate-House Conference Committee.

The bill returns to the House with nearly $500 million in Senate increases over what the House originally voted. The differences must be resolved before the bill goes to President Kennedy.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., steered the big bill, carrying more than 100 amendments.

Escapes to Brazil With $2 Million

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street wizard Edward M. Gilbert, who has admitted unauthorized withdrawals of almost $2 million from the company he headed, has flown to extradition-proof Brazil.

Gilbert stepped off a Varig Airlines jet in Rio de Janeiro Wednesday and went into seclusion.

The Arkansas State Highway Department is working on the road to the site, and it should be in tip-top shape by Sunday. Audry Thrash, Little River County Sheriff and Committee Chairman on parking, is working out a traffic flow and parking plan that should allow quick access and exit.

George Peck, Hope, Arkansas, businessman and president of the Southwest Arkansas Water District, confirmed this week that Senators Fullbright and McClellan would attend, as would Governor Faubus. Principal speaker for the groundbreaking ceremony will be Congressman Oren Harris of El Dorado.

From the Southwestern Division Corps of Engineers, Dallas, will be Colonel Gordon B. Page, Deputy Division Engineer, who will be representing Brigadier General C. H. Dunn, Division Engineer, who is attending a special school.

On the speaking program will be Colonel Howard W. Penney, District Engineer, Tulsa Engineer District Corps of Engineers, under whose jurisdiction the Millwood project is being constructed. Accompanying Colonel Penney will be Major William R. Needham, Tulsa District Executive Officer, and Mr. Myron DeGeer, Assistant Chief, Engineering Division.

It is anticipated that the whole program will take less than an hour and a half, according to Vincent W. Foster, program committee chairman, of Hope, Arkansas.

Charges U. S. Assured Firm Estes Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., charged today Commercial Solvents Corp. had assurance from the Agriculture Department it would get every dime of payments from Billie Sol Estes' grain activities before Estes ever had a grain contract.

Officials of the firm denied the statement, made before a House Government Operations subcommittee of which Bass is a member.

Bass said a triangle of interest existed between Commercial Solvents, Estes and the department when Estes began his grain activities in March 1959, during the administration of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Commercial Solvents officials denied they had done anything out of the ordinary and said they had obtained no assurances that Estes would be given any surplus grain to store.

"Before he was in the grain business at all, the department had assured you you would get every dime of payments," Bass said. "He didn't even have a grain contract until he signed over every nickel to you March 4."

Bass said Estes received his first contract to store surplus grain March 9, 1959.

Earlier testimony brought out that Estes began his grain operations with $225,000 loaned him by Commercial Solvents. This was part of a $800,000 loan which also involved payments for liquid fertilizer.

The firm's president, Maynard C. Wheeler, testified that sworn testimony which said he would take over Estes' grain storage operation is "the most preposterous statement I have ever heard of."

Wheeler, reminded that he was under oath, made the denial when Chairman L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., read a transcript of the Texas testimony of Frank Cain, a Dallas lawyer.

Cain's testimony concerned a breakfast meeting with Estes and Wheeler at Estes' home last March 17.

In the transcript, Cain quoted Wheeler as saying, "If Billie gets too involved, we can always use him as a consultant in Switzerland."

Wheeler said "I deny all of that statement."

He said Estes had been in the anhydrous ammonia fertilizer business two or three years before he began dealing with Commercial Solvents. Now bankrupt, Estes still owes the company $5.7 million.

Ten Firms Accused of Price-fixing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ten companies are accused of price fixing in the shortening and salad oil fields in indictments returned by a federal grand jury Wednesday.

Fourteen individuals also were indicted by the jury.

Stanley E. Disney, chief of the Justice Department's Los Angeles antitrust field office, said that from November 1957 until January 1960 the firms stabilized shortening prices and induced others to conform. The result, Disney said, was that competition was suppressed and buyers were denied competitive markets.

Six companies were named in indictments dealing with salad oil. Disney said they stabilized tank car prices in the $6-million-a-year industry, thus suppressing competition.

Named in the shortening indictments were Armour & Co., Chicago; Corn Products Co., Omaha, Neb.; Cudahy Packing Co., Omaha, Neb.; Glidden Co., Cleveland, Ohio; Lever Bros. Co., New York City; Procter & Gamble Distributing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio; Swift & Co., Chicago; Vegetable Oil Products, Inc., Wilmington, Calif.; Wilson & Co., Inc., Chicago; and Wesson Oil & Snowdrift Sales Co., Fullerton, Calif.

Accused in the salad oil indictment were Corn Products Co., Glidden, Procter & Gamble, Swift, and Vegetable Oil Products.

Disney said the 10 companies produce more than $40 million worth of cooking fats each year in California, Washington, Oregon, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico.

Individuals named in most cases, were Pacific Coast or Western division managers of the accused firms.

Disney said maximum penalties could be a year in prison and $50,000 fines for each of the individuals and fines of $50,000 for the corporations.

Efforts Fail to End Air Strike Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for flight engineers and three big airlines went into a crucial session with Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg today after a fruitless all-night effort to find terms that would head off a threatened strike.

The possibly final meeting got under way at 9 a. m.

As the showdown meeting began a union spokesman said the parties were in complete deadlock and the situation appeared hopeless.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government efforts to settle long-standing labor disputes between three major airlines and the Flight Engineers International Association collapsed today. Ron Brown, the AFL-CIO union's president, said a strike appeared inevitable.

Brown was asked whether a walkout will take place on the three carriers — Pan American World Airways, Trans World Airlines and Eastern Air Lines.

"It certainly appears so at this time," Brown replied.

He said the 1,000 engineers employed by the three carriers had authorized a strike some time ago. But he said he wanted to report back to the men involved and check again with them on their wishes.

Negotiations which extended for 24 hours broke off this morning. Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said that further talks appeared useless and the union was free to strike.

Goldberg left immediately to report to President Kennedy. He said the carriers had accepted but the union had rejected a last-minute proposal by the President to submit the contract dispute to voluntary arbitration.

Union attorney Asher Schwartz told newsmen that arbitration would be industrial suicide. He said the union had offered to arbitrate wage and other issues but not the key controversy—whether members of the union will still have jobs on jet planes when the carriers reduce present crews from four to three.

Jesse Freidin, attorney representing the airlines, said that if the engineers stage a walkout it will be their "second irresponsible strike against a large segment of the air transport industry" over the same issues.

Freidin referred to a six-day walkout in February 1961 that shut down seven airlines on the crew reduction issue. This was the worst airline labor stoppage in history.

The labor secretary had sat in on the all-night session and joined in a final get-together after breakfast.

The deadlock developed after two years of negotiations between the Flight Engineers International Association and the three airlines over a wide gamut of differences—the main one being the status of flight engineers aboard jet aircraft when the airlines shift as they say they must, from four-man to three-man crews.

Goldberg made public a statement given last Saturday to both sides urging arbitration of all issues. Kennedy urged acceptance of his proposal both in the interest of the public and the airlines and their employees.

Two wrecks occurred in the city yesterday, neither resulted in very extensive damage.

On 7th Street a pickup owned by Perry's Truck Stop and an auto driven by Mrs. H. K. McMurray collided with damage resulting to the side of the car. The truck was driven by Delton Cathoun. Officer Sinyard investigated.

A car driven by George Furey of Prescott accidentally went out of control, struck some picnic tables at Hope Builders Supply and knocked one table into a plate glass window. Furey was not hurt. Officers Brown, Milam and Sinyard investigated.

Full Menu Offered at Supermarkets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's supermarkets are offering almost a full menu of specialties to Little Father's Day palates this weekend.

Steaks are widely featured, with one national chain selling sirloin at 79 cents a pound and porterhouse at 85 in its New York area outlets.

Lettuce, greens and tomatoes are cheaper at most markets, offering swad attractions.

Potatoes remain a bargain and spinach, peas, butterbeans and sweet corn are regional bargains.

For fresh desserts, watermelon, strawberries, cherries, peaches and blueberries are priced lower at most stores. Dairy Month specials make whipped cream toppings reasonable.

Other beef attractions include roasts, especially rump and round, hamburger and ground beef. There is a wide assortment of pork buys, including smoked hams and picnic, loin roasts and chops.

For fathers who consider it a treat to spend the day over a hot barbecue pit, pork spareribs are a widespread special. So are broiler-fryers.

Breakfasts and snacks are also taken care of in weekend specials. Eggs remain very economical, and bacon is lower regionally. Cheeses, cottage cheese and milk are budget priced for between-meal snacks.

On Sundays Frances rested, carefully studying the fashion magazines.

FRUSTRATION WHOLESALE By ESTHER LACY

Having always been poor, Frances Conners loved to fondle fancy underwear, stroke the fine leather of a pocketbook, was delighted with costume jewelry designs, the softlight smoothness of gloves, the luxury feel of sheer stockings. So, at 18, she was happy to be a sales clerk in a tiny women's accessory shop, far uptown.

At 25, Frances had scrimped enough to buy out the owner.

Running the store alone, she worked hard. At nights and on Sundays Frances rested, carefully studying the fashion magazines.

It probably would prove something if the result of all this time and sincere work was success, but Frances barely managed. All the money went to pay the store.

When she was 32, romance entered her life. He was a middle-aged salesman, handsome and considerate. When he suggested she marry him, give up the shop, she said, "But I... can't—it's my store!"

"You're a slave to your few customers. You put in 12 to 14 hours a day, six days a week, take stupid abuse. Honey, you're not earning as much as a sales clerk in a department store. I want to marry you, not this two-bit store."

Frances wanted to marry him, agreed to give up her shop "as soon as I've had a few good months." There weren't any good months, and he stopped seeing Frances.

Frances went on working long hours, dreaming up new window displays, hunting for bargains. She couldn't understand why her store wasn't a smashing success. Granted she was uptown, still plenty of women passed her windows. Her merchandise was the best and she trimmed her prices. But most days she about covered her rent, the coffee and fast sandwich which was lunch and supper.

At 45, Frances was drawn, tired-looking. Her legs hurt and her stomach was ruined by too many quick meals. Two months after her 45th birthday Frances struck it rich. In a rather minor way, the shop was the cause of her wealth. At one time she had given away books of matches with her name and address on the cover. It hadn't helped sales, but book matches have a mysterious way of traveling. A man named Conners wrote from Los Angeles to ask if they were related. It turned out they were distant cousins—each Christmas he'd send her a greeting and she'd remember to mail him one.

One day a lawyer told her that Mr. Conners had died, left Frances, his only relative, a half a million dollars! Frances closed her shop, went to her room and slept for 48 hours.

The next day she closed her

Drinking water facilities, and fire and ambulance service will be a last minute arrangement. Parking will be directed by Boy Scouts and a company of military.

Area towns and committees are cooperating with the Texarkana Chamber of Commerce, the Red River Valley Association, and the Southwest Arkansas Water District in formulating the groundbreaking ceremony.

In case of rain, the event will be held in the high school auditorium at Ashdown.

The Corps of Engineers will have Millwood maps with descriptive literature thereon, for distribution to the general public and copies may be picked up at the ceremony site, according to Mr. Phillips Goodman, Resident Engineer for Millwood.

Youth Drowned in Pine Bluff Pool

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Roy Mack Works, 15, drowned in the Pine Bluff municipal swimming pool Wednesday.

shop and then she spent $15,000 remodeling the front of the store.

Frances still spends much time visiting manufacturers, even makes flying trips to Europe and India. She only buys one or two items of top workmanship and high style. She also changes her windows each week, doing all the work herself. The displays stop every passing woman, for her prices, clearly marked, are but a fraction of what the bag, ring, or underwear, cost Frances. Every item in the windows is an unbelievable bargain.

Frances also has a modest car, now. Parking it outside her shop, she sits on the comfortable back seat, watches the women gazing into her store windows. Frances enjoys the annoyed expressions of the women as they rush to her door, finally turning away in frustration on seeing the neat "closed for lunch" sign in a corner of the door.

Frances' lunch lasts all day.

than half the annual government budget, through the Senate in less than seven hours Wednesday. The vote for it was 88 to 0.

Most of the debate centered around futile attempts of Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to cut out an extra $220 million voted by the Senate Appropriations Committee to hasten development of the big jet reconnaissance strike aircraft known as the RS70.

Both senators were defeated by wide margins as they tried to slice RS70 margins back to the $171 million asked by President Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to continue limited development of the huge experimental aircraft.

Air-minded senators backed the full $491 million asked by top Air Force leaders to develop a complete weapons system, including long-range radars, new missiles and other special subsystems.

During the debate Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said Kennedy "told me Sunday that even if extra funds are voted" for the RS70 he wouldn't spend them.

Robertson told the Senate, however, that McNamara had informed him privately that "it might be wise" to put some extra millions into developing the RS70 as a future weapons system.

The House had voted $224 million for the RS70.

Also rejected by voice vote was an attempt by Proxmire to remove $280 million appropriated for another big aircraft carrier for the Navy.

The Senate bill would require that the Army's National Guard be maintained at a strength of 400,000 and its Reserves at 300,000 a year from now. The Pentagon

Babysitter Strangles Young Boy

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A 20-year-old babysitter, apparently unhappy over losing her job because of too many visits from her boy friend, told police she strangled a 14-month-old boy with a silk stocking.

Miss Rochelle Posey was charged with first-degree murder in the death of Michael Magier. She had telephoned police that she killed the child Wednesday.

The boy was dead before police got him to a hospital.

"I feel sorry about it now," Miss Posey told a reporter. "I'm guilty. I don't care what happens to me."

"I didn't want to have to find another job. I knew I couldn't hold it. I got pretty upset, so I decided to take the baby's life."

Police Chief Forrest Diefendorf of Norton Village said he and two patrolmen found the child lying on a couch with a pillow over his face. A woman's silk stocking was wound tightly around his throat.

Diefendorf quoted the babysitter as saying her employer, Ruth Magier, with whom she stayed, called from work and asked if Miss Posey's boy friend was there. Told that he was, Mrs. Magier told the babysitter to order him to leave.

Mrs. Magier returned home and the boy friend was still there. She ordered him to leave, told Miss Posey it would be her last day of work there, and returned to work.

The babysitter said she took Michael from his crib, laid him on the couch and got a stocking from the bathroom.

Diefendorf quoted Miss Posey as saying she choked the baby for 20 minutes.

She was held without bond in Summit County Jail.

Mrs. Magier and her husband, Joseph, 41, were separated recently. The couple has three older children, who have been living temporarily with their grandparents.

CHANGES IN ORGANIZATION

For the past several years Mr. Sam Cox has been one of the Telephone men that has been installing and repairing your phones. Three weeks ago Mr. Cox changed jobs with the Telephone Company. He will now be working on the equipment in the Central Office Building so you won't be seeing as much of him at your homes and places of business.

Replacing Mr. Cox is Mr. A. W. (Buddy) McIver. He is not a stranger to many of you, this being his home. Mr. McIver comes to our department from the Construction Department, and brings 15 years of telephone experience with him. I know many of his friends will be happy to have him installing and repairing their telephones.

Rooney Finds He Has Some Friends

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mickey Rooney is finding that he doesn't lose his friends as easily as he lost his money.

They began rallying to his aid after he filed for bankruptcy Tuesday. He claims he's broke and $464,914 in debt.

One of Rooney's creditors, attorney Robert A. Neeb of Los Angeles, said the 39-year-old actor could forget a $5,500 bill. Neeb represented Rooney's fourth wife, Elaine, in her divorce suit.

"I hope you will look upon me as a friend and not as a claimant. And I want you to take this letter as a waiver of all sums owed by you to me," Neeb wrote Rooney. He said he would ask other creditors to join him in waiving their rights.

Rooney reportedly has earned $12 million in 30 years of show business. He blames his financial condition on bad counsel and bad judgment.

DOROTHY DIX

Thunder on the Beatnik Front

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Your sweeping statements about beatniks make me furious. I admit that the question, "What is a Beatnik?" so naively submitted by one of your readers was almost unanswerable, yet find myself amazed at your glib generalization.

I quote from your text, "A beatnik is a mixed up, baffled kid who grips against modern life as expressed by what he terms our materialistic philosophy. His kind withdraw from life, create their own environment among other Bohemian beatniks with defeatist ideas. Hipsters (a form of beatnik) advocate more active and ambitious changes, and are usually to be found among artists or writers. In the best sense they are rebels. Some show remarkable talents but tend to focus on the seamy side of life by churning around in the dregs."

May I offer a more definite answer? A beatnik is one who would not cheapen himself in his quest for living by giving an sincere answer to an honest question. To put it more precisely, a beatnik is what you are not. If the dregs to whose existence you admit, did not exist, there would be no rebels. Furthermore, if the rebels should happen to be artists and through their medium express the truth as they see it, can we blame the artist if we are shocked?

As for your statement, "Sartre, the writer, is their God," one hearty horse laugh! There are to my knowledge as many as five writers whose influence is felt strongly through "the movement."

I have a question for your column. What is a loveless columnist? Stick to the blind leading the blind and leave the egg-laying to eggheads. —Roy J. Chambers, Mt. View, Calif.

Dear Roy: You write so well! Why waste your eloquence on a downbeat cause? For the record: I'm not a loveless columnist. The "lonely hearts" gals bowed out with the "sob sisters." But that you should raise such a question interests me.

My column is for people in trouble. True, about 40 per cent of my letters are from those in love. But they are also in trouble else I wouldn't hear from them. I answer their questions as sincerely and honestly as I know how, basing my replies either upon my personal experience or of that as a reporter who has seen all phases of life and still likes people — even beatniks!

Listen lady! You recently referred to the beat generation as "Bohemian beatniks with defeatist ideas." Well, I've had just about all I can take! My mother is all-Bohemian and I'm half-Bohemian. Why should a fine, upstanding people like Bohemians be classed with hipsters, beatniks, rebels and Greenwich Village drones? Why knock a nationality like the Bohemian? It's crummy columnists like you who really stir my Bohemian blood. You've just lost an ardent fan. —Carol Gue, Snoqualmie Falls, Wash.

Dear Carol: I didn't invent this use of "Bohemian." See Webster's dictionary.

Dear Helen: You have confused hipsters (pseudo-rebels) and true beatniks (or beatifics) such as Sartre and Kerouac, who have added much to the culture of our age. It is said that those worthy individuals will soon disappear from the American scene. If so, it will be at the hands of narrow-minded people like yourself. Read "The Beat Generation," and "The Angry Young Men." —J. P. Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Women Can Show Wisdom Unexpectedly

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What surprises men most about women is the things they know—and don't know.

And as a man grows older, the more he somewhat grudgingly admires the unexpected wisdom he finds in women as the custodians of human folk knowledge.

The big difference between the sexes in matters of information—allowing for numerous exceptions—is that the male mind concentrates on the big picture, the feminine mind on the little picture. I thought my daughter summed up the situation the other day with is more than a coffee house cult by taking the positive approach.

a remark philosophically profound for a 9-year-old. "Daddies know about things," she said. "But mommies know about people and families."

Isn't that really true? Don't men think more about the big events that make up the outside world, while women think more about the small events that control their personal worlds?

A man's knowledge is generalized; a woman's is specific.

Ask a woman about who fought whom at the Battle of Hastings and she is likely to reply blithely, "I didn't even know they had a quarrel. By the way, who are the Hastings?"

But if she does know a family named Hastings, she probably can rattle off the individual characteristics and ultimate fate of every member of that tribe for three generations.

Men often become exasperated at women for some of the things they don't know—and never seem to care to learn. Such as: importance of getting places on time, when to turn off their terribly acute memories, how to balance a bank account, how to drive a car properly or when to drop a subject and shut up—particularly if it's a subject she knows nothing about.

Of course, men are really wrong in some of these matters and cling to them only out of male prejudice and vanity. Most women who drive do so very well.

Most wives know how to balance a bank account at least as well as their husbands. If they didn't handle the money, the family would have gone over the hill to the poorhouse long ago. And when a woman keeps a subject going on which she is unfamiliar, it may be for a very good reason. She may not want a worse subject to come up.

It is in the relations between people, particularly those in her own family, that women are profoundly and uncannily wise.

She acts instinctively and rightly in emergencies in which her husband stands helpless.

She can tell at a glance when her child comes in the door whether he has done something wrong, or something went amiss at school.

The probable reason for the difference between what men and women know is that men spend

Twins Find a New Hero, Go Into Second

By JIM JACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Allison is the latest hero in the rotating cast of stars with Minnesota's surprising Twins, who again find themselves barely out of the American League lead, they've been pursuing since April.

Allison clipped Los Angeles reliever Ryne Duren for a two-run homer with two out in the eighth inning Wednesday night, powering the Twins to a come-from-behind 4-2 decision over the Angels. The victory hoisted Minnesota back to second place only 10 percentage points behind the New York Yankees, whose home game against Detroit was rained out.

Cleveland slipped back to third—but still only a half game off the pace—in a doubleheader split with Washington, winning the second game 4-1 after dropping the opener 4-2. Kansas City knocked over Chicago again, 4-3, and Don Schwall's two-hit pitching led Boston over Baltimore 4-0.

In the National League, front-running Los Angeles Dodgers beat Milwaukee, 2-1. Cincinnati shut out San Francisco 5-0. St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 6-1, and Pittsburgh beat Chicago 6-4. The New York Mets and the Colts were rained out at Houston.

Dean Chance, lined along with fellow Angel pitcher Bo Belinsky after an early-morning peccadillo, started against the Twins and did well but was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh and Minnesota proceeded to cash in against Duren.

Minnesota reliever Ray Moore was the winner. The Angels got their two runs off Jack Kralick.

Pedro Ramos lost the first game and Dave Stenhouse was the loser in the second.
Schwall showed the form that made him a 15-game winner and AL rookie of the year last season, handcuffing the Orioles in the wind and drizzle at Boston's Fenway Park. Boston collected six of its eight hits and all four of its runs against Chuck Estrada, now 3-1.

Palmer 5-1 Favorite in U.S. Open

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, bold and confident, is a 5-1 favorite in the 62nd U.S. Open golf championship beginning today but no one will be trying harder to win than Gary Player.

"When I started out as a professional golfer I set as my goal winning the British Open, and your Masters and Open championships," the South African said today while awaiting the first round over the rain-softened Oakmont Country Club course.

"If and when I win the U.S. Open, I'll feel I've achieved what I set out to do."

Player, now 26, achieved his first major championship—the British Open—in 1959. He won the Masters championship at Augusta in 1961, so he has step three—the U.S. Open—ahead of him. Working against him is the fact that no foreign player has won the Open since Ted Ray in 1920.

Gary was among the late first round starters teeing off with PGA champion Jerry Barber at 1:30 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Player had some criticism of the 6,894-yard, par 36-35-71 Oakmont course earlier in the week, particularly the furrowed sand traps and a couple of holes on which you must hit a fairway shot from a downhill lie to a heavily-trapped green that slants away from you.

But he toned down his impressions after Wednesday's drenching rain, which caused officials of the U.S. Golf Association to close the course to keep it in shape for today's start.

There are 150 starters for the 62nd edition of America's prestige tournament, being held for the fourth time at Oakmont, but the pre-tournament talk has narrowed down to just a handful, including Palmer and Player along with Jack Nicklaus, defending champion Gene Liller, and the 1959 Open champion, Billy Casper.

Birds, Bees Secrets Are Under Study

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bird and bee navigation secrets, balloons for scientists, and a space jaywalker are topics in science news.

Bird and Bee Secrets
Humans have made great progress in developing guidance systems for space vehicles, but it will take 100 years for electronics to catch up with the sophisticated guidance and sensory systems of the birds and the bees," says John L. Burns, former president of Radio Corporation of America. "Evidence now at hand suggests that in flight the bat finds his way by bouncing ultrasonic waves off solid objects; the pigeon homes on the magnetic lines of the earth; a bird flies thousands of miles from the tree branch in your backyard, and returns to the same branch, through stellar navigation."

"If we could only translate this characteristic into a mathematical formula—and then into hardware—we could endow an earth satellite with a similarly adaptable 'eye' that would select the precise information it was sent aloft to obtain."

Floating Laboratory
Scientists are getting their own special balloon flight station, to be set up this summer at Pleistene, Texas.

From this base, they can release balloons lifting up instruments for high altitude study of the atmosphere and weather phenomena, for astronomical studies above the clouding effects of the earth's air, and for capturing primary cosmic rays.

Long planned, the balloon facility will be built and operated by the National Center for Atmospheric Research at Boulder, Colo., with the tab paid by the National Science Foundation.

Group Sends Goat to Hyannis

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A 140-pound goat named Samson was sent to Hyannis, Mass., Tuesday, intended as a Fourth of July meal by Negro "Reverse Freedom Riders."

The goat was shipped to the Cape Cod resort by the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, which has sponsored the one-way rides of 36 Negroes to the town. Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor, chairman of the council's Freedom Rides North committee, said "barbecued goat, prepared by an expert like David Harris with his secret sauce, should make July 4, 1962, a gala occasion long to be remembered."

Harris, who left Little Rock as an unemployed cook, said on reaching Hyannis he felt he could get a job because he had a "secret sauce." He has since found employment as a cook. The goat was shipped by rail in a red, white and blue crate. An opossum shipped by Louisiana segregationists was refused Tuesday. That animal was sent in care of Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of President Kennedy. The younger Kennedy became identified with the Freedom Rides when he was active in organization of a welcoming committee.

The opossum was given to the son of a veterinarian. Railway officials declined to say what would happen to the goat if it is refused. The animal was sent to selectman Thomas Murphy, a member of the welcoming committee for the Hyannis-bound riders.

More than 60 world record fishing catches have been made in Bahama's waters and 50 per cent of the champ fishers have been women.

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

"What would you say if I told you I had found a way to make milk safe and keep it sweet a long, long time?"

In June, over 100 years ago, Gail Borden invented a process to do just that. And people soon found that his product was always safe... safe for babies and for grownups alike. Often considered too fussy about sanitation, Borden knew the importance of cleanliness and he kept insisting on it. He even went out to the farms and showed dairymen how to care for their herds and the milk they produced. He counseled with them on the care and feeding of their cows and how to bring in the milk to his factory. His rigid requirements later became a "Dairyman's Ten Commandments." These formed the basis of health department regulations as we now know them. We, today, take very seriously our responsibility to follow in his footsteps to see that all legal requirements are met and surpassed. That's why everything Borden's makes is better than it has to be.

Laos Prince Sniping at the U. S.

By PETER ARNETT

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Already sniping at "American warmongers," pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong will take temporary command of Laos' new coalition government late this month.

Neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, premier designate of the new government, said Tuesday he and right-wing leader Gen. Phoumi Nosavan will be in Europe at the same time. During their absence, he said, "the whole burden of state affairs will fall on Souphanouvong."

Phoumi, like Souphanouvong slated to become a deputy premier, will lead a Cabinet delegation to Switzerland June 24 or 25 to ratify the 14-nation Geneva agreement on Laos pledging the little Southeast Asian nation to neutrality in the cold war.

Souvanna said he is going to France to attend the wedding of his daughter.

Just what powers Souphanouvong will be able to wield while running Laos was not clear. The bulk of the Cabinet posts are invested in neutralists, and the coalition agreement stipulates that all decisions related to the ministries of defense, interior and foreign affairs must have the unanimous agreement of the three faction leaders—Souvanna, Souphanouvong and Phoumi.

Souvanna, Souphanouvong's half brother and ally in precoalition maneuvering, welcomed the American pressure that forced the right-wing Vientiane regime to give way to the coalition. But Souphanouvong has shown no softening in his anti-American position.

The next step in what the United States hopes will take Laos out of the cold war will be for Souvanna to present the new government to King Savang Vatthana. He plans to do this in the royal capital of Luang Prabang Monday.

Prince Boun Oum, the prime minister of the pro-Western royal government in Vientiane, flew with Gen. Phoumi to Luang Prabang today to submit his government's resignation.

Phoumi's delegation to Geneva will sign a pledge of neutrality agreed upon 13 months ago by such big powers as the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, Red China and France.

Another Change in Modern Living

NEW YORK (AP) — One more familiar sound of modern living is headed for oblivion.

In place of the chime that sounds when you drop a coin into the pay telephone will be silence on the caller's end of the line, at least.

The disappearance of chimes will take place over a period of several years. A new model of the pay phone is being tested in the Norfolk, Va. vicinity. When tests are complete and changes made, the new phones will begin to appear across the country.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. expects to use the new models in replacing worn or damaged phones and also in new installations.

At first the new model will be a two-tone gray with chrome finishings. Instead of separate slots for nickels, dimes and quarters, there will be only one in the upper left hand corner of the instrument. A lever instead of a push-button will release bent coins.

for transfer to white schools and a special hearing board approved 13 of the requests. The 13 Negro pupils, all first graders, entered four previously all-white schools last October.

The token integration, completed without incident under a heavy police guard, ended a century of public school segregation.

A four-man board will process separately each of this year's applications, with hearings expected to begin next month. The school board will rule on those cases involving schools which are already filled.

42 Negroes Has School Changes

MEMPHIS (AP)—Parents of 42 Negro pupils have asked the Memphis Board of Education to transfer their children to all-white or partially integrated schools.

The transfer applications were among 1,238 filed before the 10-day filing period ended Tuesday. They were filed by parents who want their children to go to school other than the ones to which they have been assigned for the coming school year. Last year 42 Negro pupils asked

Food Sense □ Not Nonsense

Just Right for the Job

A dog has to be cut out for the job—he neither too big nor too small—to snare a hare holing up in a hollow log. For a man to snare his prize—a longer life and a fit one—research indicates that the nutrients in the food he eats also may have to be cut out for the job. Too much protein or too little may get in his way.

In a recent symposium on overnutrition, Dr. Elias Halseg of the New York University School of Medicine reported results of his research on protein which point toward this conclusion: Animals withstand stress better when their food contains a normal, rather than an exaggerated, amount of protein. On a normal protein diet, animals were better able to endure exhausting exercise, lack of water, lack of food and water. They lived longer. And, contrary to many assumptions, extra-large amounts of protein offered no carryover protection for animals who were later deprived of all protein.

Most of us Americans get plenty of protein in the food we eat. U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that the average person consumes 30 percent more protein than the amount recommended by the top nutritionists who make up the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council. We can easily get the recommended amount of protein each day by eating the good way:

• 5 ounces of meat, poultry, fish, eggs, dry peas or beans • 2 servings of milk or cheese • 3 servings of vegetables • 6 servings of enriched or whole grain bread or other cereal foods.

The nutritionists continue to emphasize our need to keep a balance among the calorie-carrying nutrients—protein, carbohydrate, fat—if we want to snare our prize, a longer life and a fit one.

AF Takes Over Space Assignment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Responsibility for developing the space-craft for a military communications satellite system has been transferred from the Army to the Air Force.

A Pentagon spokesman said Monday that it is hoped the system will be in operation by 1964 instead of by 1966, the target date set by the Army.

Label "Advent," the program what materials went into the launch, warhead or device and how efficient it was.

The 18th nuclear device of the current U.S. Pacific series was detonated Tuesday following an aerial drop near Christmas Island. The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said it was in the intermediate range, meaning it had an explosive force of between 20,000 and 1 million tons of TNT.

calls for launching three to 10 microwave satellites on an equatorial orbital path 22,300 miles above the earth. The satellites would relay voice and other communications almost instantaneously. They would be entirely separate from the proposed civilian communications satellite program.

The spokesman said the main reason for transferring most of the project to the Air Force is the fact that the Army's proposed 1,300-pound satellite is too heavy for the rockets now available.

The spokesman also said project costs have been running high. The Army already has spent $170 million on "Advent" and has asked another $600 million for the coming fiscal year.

The Defense Department also announced that the Air Force will develop a system of some 40 to 50 smaller communications satellites on a polar orbit from 5,000 to 7,000 miles above the earth.

The Army will continue to be responsible for "Advent" ground equipment, the spokesman said. He added that some of the parts already developed by the Army/Ann Arbor, Mich., are being canceled.

Acting in Serials Has Good Side

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—For the past 11 years, actress Mary Stuart has been learning 15 pages of dialogue a day five days a week, rehearsing all morning and acting for 15 minutes—live—in CBS' mid-day serial, "Search for Tomorrow."

As Mrs. Arthur Tale, wife, mother and solid citizen, she has suffered mightily—even gone on trial for murder (the normal lot of any soap-opera heroine).

In exchange, Miss Stuart receives a big, regular salary check and is constantly showered with gram.

However, the Defense Department said parts of the contracts the Army has granted the General Electric Co. plants in Philadelphia and the Bendix Corp., are being canceled.

home-made aprons and pot-holders from affectionate viewers.

But the professional life of the performer in the day-time serial, despite many advantages, does not have quite the status and professional chic of the prime-time actors. Therefore, Miss Stuart was especially gratified when, last month, she was nominated as one of the five candidates for a television "Emmy" in the category for best actress in a series.

She didn't win the statue—Shirley Booth did—but the recognition was immensely satisfying.

Miss Stuart, a native of Florida and in private life a wife and mother of two children aged 6 and 5, says that the trick in serial acting is to be real.

"These programs are difficult to write and to act," she reflected. "You must be the woman next door to the audience. And because they can see you—their imagination is not called into play—you can't get into the sophisticated type of thing you could do in radio."

Mort Sahl certainly achieved a slow start on his stint as this week's "Tonight Show" host.

Wants Group to Overhaul Taxes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Rep. Gayle Windsor of Pulaski County said today he will try to get the 1968 legislature to create a commission to overhaul Arkansas tax laws.

Windsor has tried unsuccessfully in the past to get such a commission created.

Windsor said he has just about abandoned hope of getting the General Assembly to give taxpayers a deduction for federal income taxes they pay. He said assertions that such deductions would reduce revenues by $11 million a year seemed not of line.

Windsor said the tax study commission could be given a modest appropriation of about $50,000 and he given several years to make a thorough study of the tax system.

Sahl's usual patter—that odd combination of introspective psychiatric jargon and swipes at politicians and world leaders—does not come off too well in a setting for conversation.

Guards Will Get a Big Welcome

HEBER SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—When the men of the 172nd Engineer's Maintenance Company of the Arkansas National Guard come marching home to Heber Springs, the homefolks plan to give them a collective "Hurrah!"

Mayor William J. Albright has announced that he will proclaim a special day for the company, which will return in August from duty at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

A caravan will meet the 150-man convoy as it approaches Heber Springs. Residents of Claburne County are planning a dinner and entertainment.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Kensett has sent word the company will be released no later than Aug. 3 so it can participate in the 76th annual Diamond Jubilee reunion of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Heber Springs.

Capt. Richie Lee commands the company. The 172nd received nationwide publicity on television after President's call-up of National Guardsmen and reservists during the Berlin buildup last October.

TV Is Like Having Guest in Your Home

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There are people who think the ideal home machine is one which would air condition the place in summer—and serve as a television set the rest of the year.

Those are the kind of people who criticize summer television programs because they are largely a rehash of things shown previously.

"It's the same old stuff," they complain. "Nothing new."

To some thoughtful aficionados, however, the sameness of summer television isn't so bad. It's the sameness of winter television that seems to them the real problem. The summer sameness is just an echo.

But I'm not so sure I'd want the situation changed. It has certain over-all rewards as it is now.

There was a time then I, like many others, wanted television to be new and challenging and different. And I yapped because it wasn't.

But lately I've been thinking along these lines:

After all, television is like having a guest in your living room.

We have had our set for 10 full years now. Some people have sets that are always breaking down.

We have a set that never breaks down. You could hit our set over the forehead with a watermelon, and it would only blink its big bright eye—and go right on.

This perennial guest in our living room is no longer a stranger. We have learned to live with it, and now regard it rather fondly as a backward member of the family who will never quite grow up.

We're not at all sure now we ever want it to grow up. We have become accustomed to its ways.

Consider, on the other hand, what might have happened if this guest in our living room had remained new, challenging and different. It would have made us all nervous wrecks.

Who wants a new, challenging and different guest in his living room every day for 10 full years? Nobody. Long ago we'd have been forced to turn the living room over to such a gabby, frightening monster. We'd have had to camp out somewhere between the bedroom and the kitchen.

There are some who'd like to see Kitty sell the Longbranch Saloon, set fire to Marshal Dillon, have Doc operate on Chester's leg, then elope with Chester to Kansas City and open a beauty parlor.

There are even some who'd like to see Jack Benny change his expression or take up the piano.

Well, not us. We have thought this matter through, and we prefer to keep things as they are.

Every time we open our front door we run into something new and challenging and different. Life outside is so new and challenging and different it rather frightens us sometimes.

That's why we've decided we want that longtime guest in our living room to stay as sweet and hopeful as he is.

U. S. Plans to Snoop on Soviet Tests

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—With Russia expected to resume atmospheric nuclear testing soon, American experts reportedly are preparing to do a little snooping of their own.

The Russians have four instrument ships posted around Christmas and Johnston Islands in the Pacific to gather information about the American test series which began April 25 and now has reached about the midway point. There is every reason to believe the Russians have collected considerable data in the weeks their ships have been there.

Although neither of the great nuclear powers says anything publicly about its own snooping operations, each has kept close check on what the other has been doing in nuclear test blasts over the years of the atomic weapons race.

The new Soviet series could come at any time in view of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's recent declaration that the American experiments have "forced us to renew our tests."

The Russians normally test in remote regions or deep in the heart of the Soviet Union.

The Russian tests last fall, it is known, were conducted above uninhabited Novaya Zemlya, a crescent-shaped island on the edge of the Arctic.

So far as is known, the United States does not have the kind of instrument ships being used by the Soviets to spy on U.S. tests in the Pacific.

But it is believed U.S. nuclear submarines—which have proved their ability to operate in the Arctic even in winter—may have had a grandstand seat for the last Russian tests.

The most modern American subs carry advanced radar gear and super-sensitive underwater listening equipment.

This radar can spot cloud formations—and that could include atomic and hydrogen mushroom clouds—from as much as 200 miles away.

Sound-detecting devices can pick up shock waves, of the sort a nuclear blast might send through water.

A watching sub might mark the precise time of a nuclear explosion—a factor important in later analysis of the airborne debris drifting across the world.

Much of the air sampling in the wake of Russian tests is done in the Alaskan areas, which lie in the path of the radioactive debris moving with prevailing winds.

American aircraft fly into these air masses, then open nose ports which trap atomic particles flowing inside. These particles are brought back to laboratories and are subjected to microscopic, chemical and spectrochemical analysis.

All this tells American scientists illness.

He conducted the Rochester (N.Y.) Philharmonic from 1923 to 1931 and the Cincinnati Symphony from 1931 to 1947. He also had made guest appearances with most other major American orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco symphonies.

Businessmen Agree to Peek at Program

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of ranking businessmen has agreed to examine the Kennedy administration's steps to halt the balance of payments deficit and to make recommendations on how to stop the resulting flow of U.S. gold abroad.

The businessmen, headed by U.S. Steel Corp., Chairman Roger M. Blough, conferred with President Kennedy for an hour Monday night. Afterward, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said they had agreed to make the balance of payments study.

The meeting followed Kennedy's appeal Monday in a Yale University commencement speech for cooperation between the government and all segments of the economy.

Salinger said of the meeting: "The President feels that this kind of cooperation is most important and is the kind of cooperation that can be most helpful between business and the government."

In his speech earlier in the day Kennedy had declared: "The solid ground of mutual confidence is the necessary partnership of government with all sectors of our society in the steady quest for economic progress."

The President also said those who blame his administration for the sharp decline in stock prices are raising a false issue. Two of his most frequent Republican critics—Sen. Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana—hammered away again Monday on the subject of the economy at a news conference.

"It has become clear that the Kennedy administration has got America moving again—but in the wrong direction," Dirksen said. "The stock market's crash has supplied the evidence."

Halleck said of Kennedy's proposal to cut income taxes next year: "Evidently this means that Mr. Kennedy intends to cut taxes and spend at the same time. We say the two are contradictory so far as promoting confidence is concerned and can only produce intolerable deficits that will further depress the economy."

The White House conference on Monday night was a late addition to the President's schedule, but had no emergency overtones. The business leaders met during the day with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and other Treasury officials. The session was scheduled some time ago.

The deficit in payments last year ran to $2.5 billion, but in the first three months of this year was down to an annual rate of $1.8 billion and, Dillon said last week, may since have declined to about $1.5 billion.

Some of the steps taken by Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to cut the deficit included programs to increase U.S. exports; to spur travel by foreigners in the United States; a ban on travel of U.S. military dependents to Europe, later rescinded; and encouraging

Negotiations at Standstill

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Negotiations for a new contract between the Associated General Contractors of Arkansas and Local 249 of the Sheet Metal Workers Union are at a standstill, Business Agent L. B. Freeman said today.

An old contract expired June 3, Freeman said, and about 50 per cent of the union's 240 members are not working. He said the other 50 per cent agreed to stay on the job if they get retroactive pay for any increase negotiated in the new contract.

Freeman said the union was seeking an increase of 40 cents an hour over a two-year period. The present scale is $3.50 an hour.

Local 249 represents workers in central Arkansas.

Arkansan Named

other nations to shoulder a large share of foreign military defense costs.

Salinger said the White House meeting stemmed from a meeting between Blough and Kennedy on April 17. That was seven days after Blough had announced U.S. Steel would raise prices $6 a ton and four days after the increase was rescinded on the heels of vigorous opposition by the Kennedy administration.

Same Gang to Handle Vote Drive

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus indicated today he will open his fifth-term campaign on a statewide television-radio network June 23.

The date might be changed, Faubus said, but he has reserved air time on that day.

Faubus also announced he will open his campaign headquarters Monday and three campaign aides—Arnold Sikes, J. L. Bland and Orville Cheney—will go off the state payroll Friday.

Sikes is Faubus executive secretary, Cheney is chairman of the Commerce Commission and Bland is administrator of the Employment Security Division.

Faubus said he already had Cheney's resignation and he could have the other two any time he asked for them. In past campaigns, Faubus has named temporary successors to his campaign aides and then placed them back on their jobs after the election.

The governor still has not named his campaign manager. He conferred today with Sheriff Robert S. Moore of Desha County, who has been rumored as a possibility for the job, but Faubus said after the meeting he had nothing to announce.

Faubus has said neither Bland, Cheney nor Sikes will head the campaign. State Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin had the job in 1960.

Canada had 478,000 births in 1961 and 139,000 recorded deaths.

East Berliners Tunnel to West

BERLIN (AP)—A West Berlin newspaper reported today that a sizable group of East Berliners crawled to freedom in West Berlin through a tunnel last weekend.

The paper, Nachtdespeche said, the group reached West Berlin under dramatic circumstances.

Nachtdespeche said it was not publishing details of the escape to avoid giving East German police any hints.

West Berlin government and police officials would not confirm the newspaper report. The West Berlin authorities have admitted such tunnel escapes only after they were certain that the East German police had detected the escape hatch.

Chaffee Plans Announced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans to keep Ft. Chaffee, Ark., open were announced today.

An aide to Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the Army advised the senator that new activities there would start after release in August of Army reserve units now stationed at the post.

Approximately 9,000 active troops will be sent to the fort. The type of units to be stationed there has not been determined, the Army said.

Ft. Chaffee was closed in 1959 and reopened last September for use as a training center for Army National Guard and reservists called to active duty during the Berlin crisis.

U. S. to Keep Military in Thailand

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will keep military forces in Thailand for the time being despite the agreement of neighboring Laos' three political princes to form a coalition government.

High U.S. officials, in disclosing this today, said they believe the threat of a Communist-dominated Laos has been averted, at least for the present.

However, the new Laotian government is expected to be too weak at the outset to halt the flow of Red infiltration from neighboring North Viet Nam.

U.S. troops in Thailand, which now number about 4,800, are being retained there as a protection against Communist infiltration into that U.S.-allied country.

The United States is concerned, too, about the infiltration of Communist guerrillas into pro-Western South Viet Nam via a corridor through southern Laos. This flow is expected to continue.

U.S. officials are hopeful that the 14-nation Geneva conference on Laos can meet by the first week of July, or possibly sooner, to put into effect the agreements which will naturalize Laos and remove it from the cold war arena.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, premier-designate of the new coalition government, is expected to head the Laotian delegation at Geneva.

There is still a blank spot in the Geneva agreement which remains to be negotiated. This is a declaration by Laos of the neutrality it expects to maintain under its new government of national union.

American authorities are now going on the assumption that the military dispute that divided the little Southeast Asian kingdom can be shifted to the political arena.

With the progress made thus far toward setting up a coalition government, the United States can resume its financial assistance to the royal government and will be ready to continue aid to the new Souvanna Phouma government once it has taken the reins of power.

The United States has held up budgetary assistance amounting to $3 million a month since February.

Oversight May Have Caused Crash

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mechanic's oversight, a tiny cotter pin and a bolt less than an inch long could have been the ingredients of disaster in the New York crash of a jet airliner, the Federal Aviation Agency says.

Ninety-five people were killed when the American Airlines Boeing 707 plunged into Jamaica Bay on March 1, seconds after taking off from Idlewild Airport.

The FAA said the bolt, part of a complex rudder mechanism, may have slipped out of place when a nut securing it fell off—for lack of the little cotter pin.

The agency wired airlines and other organizations that fly 707 jets Tuesday, warning them of the potential danger spot. One such warning went to the Military Air Transport Service, which operates the Boeing jets used by President Kennedy and other government leaders.

George C. Prill, director of the FAA flight standards service, said the New York crash "could have been the result of an installation mistake by one man on one aircraft."

"We do not see this as a possible explanation for any other 707 crash about which we have any information," he said. "But it would not be the first time that an airplane crashed because a mechanic left a cotter pin out of a bolt."

"You cannot say this is it—we can never prove it happened even though it could have happened."

Prill said the Civil Aeronautics Board still is investigating the New York crash and will make the final decision on the probable cause.

Monticello Goes for Bond Issue

MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP)—Residents of Monticello overwhelmingly approved two bond issues totaling $152,000 Tuesday to finance improvement of water and sewage systems.

County Clerk Fay Stephenson said 728 voted in favor of the issues, and 18 voters opposed them.

One issue for $38,000 will be used to expand the sewage system and a $114,000 issue will be used to expand the water system. They will be repaid by a four-mill tax.

The expansions will provide service to a proposed plant for Burlington Industries, Inc., of Greensboro, N.C. Residents of Monticello already have approved a $850,000 bond issue to finance construction of the plant, which will make rugs.

U.S. Can Hold Own Against Common Mart

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States has a good chance of holding its own against the much vaunted European Common Market in any world trade contest.

This optimistic reasoning of many worried American manufacturers—and of government officials handling finance and trade—is expressed today by economists of the Chase National Bank, New York. But they quickly add a big "if."

The United States can hold its own—that is, halt the sharp percentage loss of world trade suffered in recent years, with its close bearing on the strength of the dollar and the outflow of gold—if production costs can be held in line with productivity gains.

The bank economists stress that mere comparison of American and European wage scales isn't the answer to the problem.

In a report on Western Europe as a competitor, the bank economists say:

"The simple relationship between U.S. and European wage rates—how long it will take Common Market wages to catch up with American—is less important than how completely wage increases in each economy are offset by increases in productivity—whether unit labor costs move up, or down, or remain the same."

American manufacturers point of the fast growth of the European industry, the Common Market's biggest advantage was unit labor costs. Hourly wages plus fringe benefits averaged about one-third of the levels in similar U.S. industries.

Offsetting this in large degree was higher American productivity—output per man-hour—but total production costs per unit were still lower in Europe.

The bank says that from 1953 to 1958 hourly wage scales rose faster in the United States than did productivity.

"Since 1958, however, U.S. wages and productivity have risen at about the same rate, while European wages have outstripped productivity gains," it adds.

Some American manufacturers have been able to compete successfully all along, especially in those industries where innovation, engineering and design are most important.

The spectacular gains by Western Europe and Japan in the 1950s, moreover, have brought them back to roughly the share of world markets held before World War II.

Total American exports are much higher today than before the war; it's the U.S. percentage of the world market that has changed. But this drop in percentages from the 1948 peak of 44

Trans-Texas Air Proposal Heard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board hears arguments today on a proposal that Trans-Texas Airways curb its service to some cities in Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Pending before the board is a finding of CAB examiner William F. Casick that some flights of Trans-Texas should be dropped from its schedules because the communities involved had not generated enough traffic.

The examiner's recommendations stemmed from a board policy which holds that authorization for scheduled stops on an airline's system shall be canceled if there is not sufficient business.

Among other things, the examiner recommended that Trans-Texas delete from its system a flight from Little Rock to New Orleans via Pine Bluff, El Dorado, Alexandria and Lafayette.

Other recommendations called for deletion of Natchez, Lake Charles, Deridder, Beaumont and Port Arthur as stops on certain Trans-Texas flights.

The bank thinks the line can now be held—if production unit costs can be brought to a level more in balance with foreign competition. And it sees a good chance of that.

May Send Up Man, Monkey Together

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans to put a man and monkey in orbit together as part of the preliminary experiments for a moon landing were outlined to senators today.

James E. Webb, chief of the civilian space agency, said the joint orbit of an astronaut with an instrumented chimpanzee or other animal would be a follow-up to the so far successful Mercury project of putting a man in orbit.

Webb also told of plans to add another 14,800 acres to the Cape Canaveral, Fla., launching area to handle the huge rockets and boosters now under development.

Accompanied by key defense and Atomic Energy Commission officials, Webb asked the Senate Space Committee to approve a $3,787,720,000 authorization for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

He said plans now are to complete the three-orbit Mercury flights, which John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter already have made, and then extend these to include flights up to one day's duration.

That could mean 18 orbits of the earth in 24 hours.

Webb said the next step will be and efforts to join or rendezvous a two-man spacecraft called Gem-

Progress Day at Berryville

BERRYVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The Berryville Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a "Progress Day" June 30 to dedicate a new building that houses the Glick Manufacturing Co., a garment factory.

In giving special attention to industrial and commercial development, residents of Berryville also will inspect a new restaurant, a new fabric center and the C and R Book Co.

Among the speakers scheduled for the occasion are Cass Hough of Rogers, president of the Dairy Manufacturing Co., and Marvin Grenbaum of Kansas City, president of Lee-Wald Co.

Business to Try to Halt Flow of Gold

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Business and government are joining forces to seek ways to halt the outflow of gold from the U.S. Treasury.

But even as they are trying to find a common cause after many weeks of bickering on other problems, foreign traders in the metal were expressing skepticism by raising the price of gold again on the London free market.

The price Tuesday morning jumped to $55.10 an ounce, compared with $55.09½ Friday and $55.08½ a week ago. The U.S. Treasury's official price is $35 plus about eight cents in charges. The premium gold now commands in the free market reflects outsiders' judgment of the difficulty of the task the U. S. government and a group of top businessmen face in seeking to strengthen the dollar and halt the gold outflow.

Buyers of gold in London were not named. But since the U.S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve System have been working closely with foreign central banks in recent months to stabilize the price of gold, and build bulwarks against any run on the non-Communist world's principal currencies, much of the gold buying presumably is by speculators or other traders than the central banks themselves.

The London free market handles newly mined gold as well as any metal which the banks may wish to sell or buy at any particular time, and any metal which hoarders may want to unload or acquire.

The steady rise in recent days of the dollar price for gold in London has been variously attributed to foreign uneasiness about the state of the U. S. economy after the stock market break, or fears of prolonged Treasury deficits which they feel might mean more inflation with a corresponding weakening of the marketplace value of the dollar, or belief that American attempts to solve its balance of payments deficit will be unavailing or only partially successful.

It is this deficit which the businessmen group is studying. It is headed by Roger M. Blough, U.S. Steel chairman, and includes such leaders as Henry C. Alexander, chairman of Morgan Guaranty Trust, New York, who favors freeing the dollar from gold reserves altogether; Crawford H. Greenwalt, Du Pont president; and Thomas J. Watson Jr., president of International Business Machines.

The gold problem stems from the balance of payments deficit. For several years the United States has been spending more dollars abroad for imports, foreign aid, military bases, travel and private investments than it has been getting back by sale of its exports and by returns on its foreign investments.

As these surplus dollars build up in foreign central banks, some are being turned into the U.S. Treasury for gold. The reserve is now at a 22-year low of $16.4 billion. Dollar reserves of foreigners and their investments in U.S. resources and companies come to more than that. Theoretically American gold reserves face this potential threat, although practical measures make any really crippling run on Ft. Knox all but impossible.

The balance of payments deficit continues, however, although this year running below last year's drain of $2.5 billion, and deficits in previous years as high as $4 billion.

Okays Bond Issue

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A $150,000 bond issue was approved Tuesday by Bentonville voters. The funds will be used to partially finance construction of a $500,000 hospital. Unofficial results showed 806 votes for the issue and 158 against. Bentonville citizens have raised $100,000 toward the cost of the structure. The remaining $250,000 is to be supplied under the federal Hill-Burton act.

ini, launched on a Titan missile, payloads in outer space.

Then a three-man spacecraft, the Apollo, powered by the huge Saturn booster, will come along. If the rendezvous technique fails, then a giant Nova rocket will be tried, Webb said.

Blytheville Group to Get Faubus Snub

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus headed for a Blytheville speaking engagement today, determined to ignore criticism from the Blytheville Citizens Committee.

E. H. Brown, spokesman for the committee said it hoped one of Faubus' five opponents wins the Democratic nomination for governor.

Faubus said Brown "has been against me for six years."

"I don't know what his beef is, but the people of Blytheville know him and I don't consider him worthy of an answer."

In his statement, Brown said he and his committee had been trying to get electric power rates of the Arkansas-Missouri Power Co., lowered and Faubus had done nothing to help.

Faubus said Brown has never filed a protest against Ark-Mo's rates with the state Public Service Commission.

PSC Chairman Lewis Robinson said Brown filed a protest with the Blytheville City Council, which has concurrent jurisdiction with the PSC in Blytheville rate matters.

"The council turned him down," Robinson said. "He came to us and we told him to file a (protest) petition, but he would not do this."

Robinson said power costs around Blytheville are higher than in some other areas of the state because cost of fuel to produce power is higher there.

Faubus was to address a Blytheville civic club at noon today.

Philanthropy in the United States (private giving for public cause) amounted to a record $8.7 billion in 1961.

Rules Appeal Rights Exhausted

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court issued a mandate Monday stating that Lee Mode of Conway has exhausted his appeal rights and should begin serving a 21-year sentence for second degree murder.

The mandate went to the circuit clerk in Conway County, where Mode was tried on a charge of venue. He was charged in the fatal shooting of Delbert Russell on a Conway street in 1958.

Mode has been free on $25,000 bond while his case was on appeal. The U.S. Supreme Court refused last week to review the case.

Mode was convicted twice. The Arkansas Supreme Court reversed the verdict of the first trial, which also resulted in a 21-year prison sentence.

It is estimated that stable flies can cause a 10 to 20 per cent decline in milk production.

ED'S TRAVELS
By BILL COPELAND

The first thing Ed Pullman did when he got back to Half-Acre Junction was look up Ella Mary Courmarant. It was nice finding she lived in the same big house with the porch all around three sides.

The first night he was back Ed cornered Ella Mary on that porch and gave her a wower of a kiss.

Ella Mary giggled, "Did you learn to kiss like that in the city, Ed?"

He kissed her again and then stood back to drink in the wonder of her big eyes. He drew a lot of air into his lungs and made his chest big and declared, "Me, I've stood on the steps of the statehouse and sat with the wealthy in the biggest night clubs in the state."

"Golly, Ed," she cooed, "you're a regular man of the world now."

Ella Mary was so impressed she shook and Ed held her tight to quiet her. She felt the strength in his arms and sighed. He kissed her again and she sighed some more.

"Golly, Ed," she cooed, "you're a regular man of the world now." "Well, I've been around," Ed admitted. "At the Harding Memorial I walked right in and looked at the crypt like I'd known the man myself. I rode across the only 'Y' bridge in the country and I've had dinner at a hotel where the meals cost $2."

Ella Mary just gaped and Ed took advantage of her open-mouthed wonder to kiss her again. She pulled away a little, smoothed her apron and murmured, "Ed Pullman, you're sweeping me off my feet!"

"Well, I've seen it all," he measured his words, "but now I'm ready to settle down."

Ella Mary didn't say a word and Ed repeated, "I'm ready to settle down."

When she looked up, he nodded and she asked, "Why, Ed, are you proposing?"

"Like I say," Ed assured her, "I've seen the world and its wonders and I'm ready to be a family man now. We can spend the long evenings discussing the many things I've seen with my own eyes."

Impressed, Ella Mary wriggled closer. Figuring her action meant acceptance, Ed whipped out a diamond ring. Ella Mary gaped.

Young Hurler Signs With Yanks

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—Charles Hayes, 17-year-old pitching star with Walnut Ridge's state championship American Legion junior baseball team, signed a professional contract with the New York Yankees Tuesday.

Hayes said the contract calls for a $20,000 bonus and pay of $900 a month this summer while he plays with Harlan, Ky., the Yankee farm in the Appalachian League.

Hayes said he was offered the contract last week when he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hayes of nearby Black Rock, were guests of the Yankees for three days.

Seeks Fair Share

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—William H. Bowen, president of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, said Tuesday state chambers need a program to insure Arkansas a fair share of the $52.5 billion being spent annually for national defense. Bowen said a meeting will be held Wednesday to discuss ways of obtaining the funds. Delegates from chambers in the state's 75 counties have been invited to the meeting, he said.

appreciatively.

"That's from the state capital," Ed boasted. "The man who sold it to me has bejeweled the best people in the state."

"I'm so proud, Ed," Ella Mary chirped.

Ed put the ring on her finger and when he kissed her she really returned it. In all his travels he'd never seen anyone with the labial intake of Ella Mary.

On her way downtown the next day she ran into Treadway Antonberry and gave him a big hello.

"My, you're looking fine," Treadway told her, smiling and tipping his straw hat.

"I'm feeling just goodie, thanks," Ella Mary told him, flourishing her ring hand.

"Ed Pullman?" Treadway asked, smiling.

Ella Mary nodded and hid her eyes, giggling. "He's back from his travels, you know. Been everywhere, it seems."

"I guess I've done some traveling myself," Treadway told her. "All my life."

He pulled her into the doorway of the Ferry Building and kissed and hugged her. She straightened her hat and exclaimed, "Oh my, oh my!"

That night, Ed came around again and told her some more about his travels. Ella Mary was so interested in all the places he described that she closed her eyes and tried to picture them.

The next night, Ed found Ella Mary had gone out. He waited on the porch and then watched Treadway Antonberry kiss her good night. When Ed interrupted them, she handed him back his ring.

"Mr. Antonberry and I are being married," she snipped. Ed looked at Treadway distastefully. "This no-good traveling salesman?"

"Of course," Ella Mary cut him down. "He's going to take me with him. Ed Pullman, I'm going to see for myself some of those wonderful places you told me about!"

The End

Real Trouble May Be Ahead in Laos

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Laos has just taken its first step toward peace, but if history means anything this is just the first step toward real trouble.

For more than a year, the United States has urged the three feuding princes—one pro-Western, one neutralist, one pro-Communist—to bury the hatchet and form a coalition government in which all three could share.

Tuesday they signed an agreement and on paper it looks pleasantly reasonable.

Of the 19 Cabinet posts, 11 go to neutralists, four to members of the present pro-Western royal government, and four to the pro-Communist group. The top job and the three most important Cabinet jobs go to neutralists.

Prince Souvanna Phouma will be premier and defense minister; Pheng Phongsavan will head the Interior Ministry which controls the police; Quinin Pholsena, who has made bitterly anti-American statements, will be foreign minister.

The head of the pro-Communist group, Prince Souphanouvong, will be deputy premier and economics minister. One of the leaders of the pro-Western group, Gen. Phou-mi Nosavan, who has been criticized by the United States, will also be a deputy premier and minister of finance.

It's unreal to think the pro-Communist will simply serve in the government, always acting like nice boys, without trying to take it over, either suddenly, in an unexpected rush, or gradually.

Seventy-five days from Tuesday's signing all foreign troops are to be withdrawn from Laos. The United States has had about 300 observers there, helping the pro-Western government. It has been estimated about 10,000 men from Communist North Viet Nam are in Laos, supporting the pro-Communist forces there.

After these foreign troops leave, the new Laotian government is supposed to merge into one national army the troops of the present opposing forces: the pro-Communist from the north, the pro-Westerners from the south.

This merger attempt may bring the first explosion, although it's possible the newly created coalition of pro-Communist, neutralist and pro-Westerners will blow up before it really gets started because of old grudges, new ambitions and permanent distrusts.

If all this were not a cause for trouble, there is still one more, a beaut, lying ahead.

Prince Souvanna Phouma said that, after the opposing troops have been integrated, he will hold nationwide elections to determine the will of the Laotian people. He had hardly said this when

Burglars Fail to Open Safe

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—Burglars hammered and blasted but they couldn't break open a safe at the Ritchie Wholesale Grocery Co. here.

The damaged safe with some American officials in Laos were reported to have said this has many pitfalls.

In short, new peace in Laos looks like a preliminary to new trouble. And any trouble will be trouble for the United States which now is deeply involved in Southeast Asia and can hardly afford to see any of it slip away, no matter how.

abandoned burglar tools scattered around was discovered today.

Police Chief G. B. Cole said the burglars gained entry by tearing siding from the building. They first tried to hammer off the combination dial and then blasted it off, he said. The door did not open, however.

Frustrated by the safe, the burglars made off with only a carton of cigarettes.

Cole said the burglary attempt was similar to successful breakins in Texarkana and El Dorado during the past few days.

World production of manganese ore rose more than 4 percent in 1960, according to the 1962 Britannica Book of the Year.

Come Over For An Informal Porch Supper

Are you one of the many new brides setting up housekeeping this month? Even though you haven't completely furnished your new home you can invite your family, in-laws, and friends over for an informal porch supper served buffet-style.

Put some of your lovely wedding gifts to use. For the main course for supper use an attractive double server or divided dish. It answers the need nicely. Fill one side with tempting veal birds. So easy for the new bride, so extra special for the invited guests, the thinly sliced veal is rolled around balls of cream cheese with chives spread, then cooked in a luscious cream of mushroom soup sauce accented with green pepper, garlic, and rosemary. To go along... in the other side of the dish... fluffy white rice with a sprinkling of paprika for color.

Your handsome wooden salad bowl takes on special airs filled with a tossed vegetable salad.

The table looks beautiful... the food delectable. Your porch supper is a great success!

Veal Roll-Ups Superb
2 pounds thinly sliced veal cutlet
2 1/2 cups (6 ounces) cream cheese
1 cup chives spread
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 medium clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon rosemary
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup water
Cooked rice
Pound veal with meat hammer or edge of heavy saucepan cut into 6 pieces long enough to roll. Divide cheese into 6 parts; roll each into a ball. Place one near center of each piece of meat; roll, pinwheel fashion; fasten with toothpicks. Sprinkle with green pepper, garlic, and rosemary in butter. Stir in soup and water. Cook covered for 45 to 50 minutes, stirring now and then. Cook uncovered an additional 10 minutes. Serve with rice. Makes 6 servings.
